We live for enamel

For nine generations now RIESS has been synonymous with producing long-lasting enamelware of the highest quality. The company today enjoys global demand and its roots go back as far as 1550.

Individual lifestyles are held in high regard at RIESS KELOmat, as is sustainably produced craftsmanship. This has been the company's tradition for centuries and has garnered great acclaim both nationally and internationally. Now operating in its sixth generation under the Riess name, the company is known for its unique product design with individual benefits. Susanne Rieß, Julian Riess and Friedrich Riess are the current owners. The enamel products from the house of RIESS allow foods and meals to be prepared, cooked, served and enjoyed, easily, attractively and individually by drawing on intelligent functionality and great design, as well as the quality and durability of the end product.

Healthy + ecological cooking with a twist

The latest showstopper from RIESS KELOmat: Aromapots. In granny's days these just meant simple design and materials – today they have acquired a cult following, not least because of the appealing design. There is now a new range which has been brought right up to date: clear lines, honest materials and strong colours for people who care about the environment and sustainability. First and foremost, the good heat conductivity reduces energy consumption when cooking with these pots, pans and casseroles. They also have a surface which is resistant to cuts and scratches, in addition to being aroma-neutral and reducing bacteria, as well as being recommended by experts for sufferers of nickel allergies. But RIESS does not only specialise in pots and pans – the company also produces top-quality, highly durable enamel signs and road signs. What makes them special is the fact that the brilliant, high-gloss, UV-resistant surface doesn't fade, keeping its bright colour for decades. Enamel signs are extremely resistant to scratches as well as being easy to clean. Impervious to acids and with a non-rust coating and undercoat, the original RIESS enamel signs are undoubtedly a top quality product which lasts and lasts. The broad product portfolio of this family-run company also includes other industrial components and glassware along with electrical household appliances.

International success – thanks to the very highest quality

The products of the longstanding RIESS and KELOmat brands are a feature across the whole German-speaking region, Eastern and South-Eastern Europe, Great Britain, the USA and – since 2003 – also in Australia. A few years ago RIESS KELOmat GmbH additionally began exporting to New Zealand, Korea and Japan. RIESS KELOmat is also an institution in its native Austria where it has been an enamelware specialist for more than 80 years. Anyone looking for stability under extreme heat, UV-resistance, no-scratch properties, and a smooth, antibacterial surface is sure to find just what they're looking for with RIESS KELOmat. One thing is certain: the motto »we live for enamel« has become a way of life in this company rich in tradition.
